

YOU'VE GOT A FRIEND: THE MUSIC OF THE BRILL BUILDING

STEP INSIDE THE LEGENDARY HALLS OF 1619 BROADWAY, WHERE THE SOUNDTRACK OF AMERICA WAS BORN.

In the heart of Times Square, The Brill Building was more than an office -- it was a music-making factory that shaped the sound of the 50s and 60s. From its walls came some of the greatest hits in pop music history, written by Carole King, Neil Sedaka, Lieber & Stoller, Neil Diamond, Barry Mann & Cynthia Weil, and many more.

Following the recent passing of Neil Sedaka, tributes have reignited a wave of nostalgia for these timeless classics that continue to resonate decades later, including:

- Breaking Up Is Hard to Do
- Where the Boys Are
- Will You Still Love Me Tomorrow
- You've Lost That Lovin' Feelin'
- On Broadway

...and many more unforgettable songs that defined a generation.

Spot-On Entertainment brings the Brill Building to life — not just the music, but the stories behind the singers, songwriters, and hits that changed popular music forever. Audiences will be swept away by the performance from a trio of powerhouse singers that is equal parts nostalgia, storytelling, and high-energy entertainment.

Spot-On concerts are scalable, from three singers plus pianist all the way up to full symphony orchestra arrangements, making them perfect for performing arts centers, symphony pops series, Broadway subscription series, civic celebrations and summer festival programming.
